They took so many as to throw discredit upon the institution. They overreached the scientific rules of their art, and almost broug t discredit upon the Professors' chair of their own organization. They took away too many bills—took out too large a slice from the foundation—struck out too far, and made a haul at a slegic swoop that left no nest egg. They were thoughtless, especially if they intended to go there and aligned a professor. Now they are trying to mend the matter. If we interpret the dispatch correctly, they desire the Bank to take back a part of their bills, so that they can go on and keep the rest in good credit. Of the Arabia.

Os Board fee Arabia, Aug. 17, 1868.

A collision having taken place between the steamship Europa, bound from Boston to Liverpool, and the steamship Arabia, bound from Liverpool and the steamship Arabia, bound from Liverpool to New York, about 11 o'clock on the evening of Saturdry, Aug. 14, off Cape Rase, the subscribers, passengers on board the Arabia, desire to put on record their profound sense of their obligations to the Captain and officers of the ship, for the skill, promptitude and courage, which averted the impending danger. The Arabia was pursuing her course, two men being on the look out at the bows, and one on each paddle box, the first officer, Mr. Anderson each paddle box, the first officer, Mr. Anderson to efficer of the wareh at the time), standing nearly amidahips, and Capt Stone at or near the stern, when sit. Anderson saw a light, which noved to be that of the Europa, on the starband bow, and vary near. From the statements of eye witnesses, it appears that when the light was first discovered, the relative positions of the vossels and the spend at which they were going, rendered a collision at some point incritable. The alarm bell was instantly rung, and Mr. Anderson gave the order to put the and Mr. Anderson gave the order to put the belm starboard.

The general rule in the case of vessels meet-

The general rule in the case of vessels meeting each other from opposite directions in the occan, is that each shall put the helm a port. In this case the oilicer, Mr. Anderson, saw that by following the rule, the Arabia would be driven directly upon the course of the Europa, and must strike her at right angles. Such a collision would have sunk one ship, and perhaps both.—The responsibility of deciding what to do was of of the gravest character, and had to be taken instantly, under circumstances that might well appait the stoutestheart. Mr. Anderson showed himself equal to the emergency, and without an instantly hesitation, took the responsibility of giving the order helm astarboard, which was instantly executed. This altered the course of the Arabia about two points before the ships came is together, and the collision took place in a slanting diretion, at the bowe. Both ships were somewhat dsmared, but neither of them fatally. No injury of any moment was done to any persomewhat damaged, but neither of them fatally. No injury of any moment was done to any person on board of either ship. The damage done to the Europa causing her to leak, made it necessary to put into St. Johns for repairs. Some injury was done to the bows of the Arabis, and the pillow-block of the Erarboard paddle wheel was so much injured that it became useless.

A detention of twelra hours was caused by the necessity of disconnecting the engine from the disabled wheel, and making it fast; and this injury is likely to prolong the Arabia's voyage tre distoled wheel, and making it isst; and the jury is likely to prelong the Arabia's voyage two or three days. This appears to be the ut most extent of the damage, in a collision of two poverful steamships of nearly equal force, under a heavy fog, and at full speed. So extraordinary a result we believe to be due, under Providence, the than desirable conversities of Carties. Some to the admirable seamanship of Captain Stone to the admirable featmanning of Captain Stone, his officers and the engineers; to the excellent discipline of the men, and to the promptaces and courage with which the officer of the watch made up his judgment and gave the order in accordance with it. We, therefore, seel it our duty to express to them our entire confidence in their capacity, skill and firmness, and our belief that to these qualities, exercised in a dangerous emergency, we are indebted, under God, for our present maiety.

A gentleman who was a passenger on the Arabia, has furnished an interesting account of the occurrence. He states that at 11 o'clock, the occurrence. He states that at 11 o'clock, when the collision occurred, most of the passengers had retired to rest. All the ladies had retired some time before. A few gentlemen were easted in the saloco, engaged in conversation.—Strangely enough, the theme of their romarks was courage exhibited by persons of different temperaments and mental peculiarities in times times of great danger. Individual instances of courage and tear were cited the illustration of opinious expressed.

In the midst of this conversation a loud crush was heard forward, not up like a clap of thunder,

In the midet of this conversation a loud crush was heard forward, not un like a clap of thunder, and this was followed by a ginding sound, as of something rubbing sgainst the side of the vessel. The crash startled everybody, and the discussion on physical courage was, by tacit agreement, postponed indefinitely. Passengers rushed out of their state-rooms in ehe middet excitement; soveral fainted, and hardly any body on board falled to betray signs of deep emution. Our informant had a lady in his care, and his first object was to secure information as to the nature and extent of the damage. His impression was that they had struck an icoberg, several of which they had seen the day pravious. Going forward he accertained that the starboard bow of the Arabia had come in collision with the port bow of the Europa, and learning that there was no immediate danger, he went below and stated the fact.

According to the usual custom of steamers in meeting one another, the belie of the Europe, on observing the Arabia's light, was put hard aport; the officer of the Arabia discovered the Europa's lights, when he can that if he ported the halm the Arabia would inevitably stride the Europa midshim. He therefore was the order Europa amidships. He therefore gave the order to put the helm hard a starboard, which threw her hows around, and thus prevented a collision which otherwise would probably have been [atal to one if not both vessels. Capt. Stone at once dispatched a boat to see the extent of the damage restained by the Europa. The Captain of the Europa requested that the Arabia stay near by and keep her company into St. Johns, Newfoundland,

Capt. Stone came into the saloon, stated the facts to the passengers and informed them of his intention to comply with the request of the captain of the Europa. But the Arabia had hardly got under way when the engineer discovered that the machinery had been damaged, and he was compelled to stop the engines. An examination discovered that the plumber block of the starboard wear had been broken when the two steamers sweet based side to and that before they could proceed further the engine must be disconnected with the sterboard wheel. This caused a delay of twelve hours, and in the meantime the Europa had proceeded on her way to St Johns, and she had probably reached there, Capt. Stone concluded to continue his course to New York with the post wheel.—N. Y.Tribune.

The Voice of Portage.

We publish this morning the proceedings of a very large meeting, held at Portage City on the 19th instant, to give expression to the universal rentiment in that vicinity, relative to the action of Gov. RANDALL and the claims of the La Cross-Company. It will be seen that the course of the Governor was unanimously and enthusiastically endorsed, and the unjust aspersions and vindictive arsaults of the Wisconsin and News pointedly condemned. The people of Portage are undaubtedly right in the opinion that "the arrogant assumptions" and "vituperative language of a portion of the Milwaukee press" are not "the voice of Milwankee,"

Congressional Candidates.

Our glance at thescandidates in this Congressional District, in Saturday's paper, elicite characteristic remarks from the Wisconsin and the News. The former paper, which has abandoned the political arena for the family circle, thus abrewdly discourses:

Daily Neurisellique, and strongly lavored by the Daily Neurisellique, and strongly lavored by the Daily Neurisel, Mr. Noonan, Dr. Hucbschmann, &c. We incline to the opinion that the Sentinel will not succeed in getting Mr. Brown nounnated. When the Convention meets, the Neurisellibe prepared to "pitch into" Brown. Mr. Brown is an exteemed and influential member of the Lorne Lind Chin and will daubthee deep the Jenny Lind Club, and will doubtless draw out all the sympathics of that club in his behalf. Madison.

A "Family paper" cannot be expected to know much about politics, and it is no marvel, there- Madison. fore, that the Wisconsin should be so wide of the mark, both as to the Sentinel and the News .-The Sentinel supports John F. Potter against any and all other candidates. For Mr. JAMES S. Brown, personally, we entertain the highest regard, but his politics are most objectionable,proceeds to qualify that opinion, thus :

Mr. Brown's strength consists more in his power to weaken Potter, by drawing off from him the men of substance in this city, who have usually gone with the opposition, than it does in any superior popularity, which he enjoys over other members of his own party, with the staunch, and ever reliable Democracy of Milwaukee.

The News could not be expected to swallow this bitter pill, without making a way face, and that he is corrupt. Alexander Randell, thus far, therefore the above. However, it goes on to say:

If nominated by the convention, he will be entitled to, and doubtless will, receive the condial, and effective support of every true Democrat. Indeed, we abould seriously doubt the If nominated by the convention, he will be entitled to, and doubtless will, receive the cordial, and effective support of every true Damocrar. Indeed, we should seriously doubt the democracy of any one who would bestate in giving such a support to him, after he had received that endorsement. This is a much more intelligible process to outsider, but is slow, accomplishing at the lastest, only about fourteen words a minute.

The House instrument prints the message in roman capitals on a long strip of paper, by the revolution of a type wheel, the operator playing on a key board like that of a piano, with a key for each letter. The printing is done by clockwork, the use of the electric current being to preserve equal time, so that the letters of one machine may correspond to those of the other.—This instrument prints twenty five or thirty words a minute. A Double Bed Insisted Upon.—A letter from Hamburg, published in the Utica Observer, relates the following anecdote:

"From Paris we went to Aix la Chapelle, and then to Cologne and Bonn. From Bonn, a tail bour's ride by railroad enabled at to vielt Bruhl, a Prussian palsoe, the grounds about which are very handsome, although the palace itself is, when compared with the English and French, rather plain. The attendant who showed us the palace pointed cut to us a large double bed, wide enough for three or four, which had been made for Victoria and Prince Albert, on the occasion of the Queon's visit, some ten years ago, to Prussian. The Pressian style is single beds, two in the same room, but Victoria would not submit to be unconsorted, and demanded her accustomed accommodations. Another double bed is now shown at Brahl, which the Prince of Prussia, who has just married Victoria's daughter, ordered for their accommodation at Cologne—which is an hour er two by railroad from Brahl—but which proved to be too shert for his princely accommodation, so that an express train had to be dispatched to Bruhl, to bring them the Victoria couch." The Hughes Instrument is a combination of the Morse and House inventions. In the Morse The Hughes statement is a constraint of the Morse and House inventions. In the Morse instrument two or three pulsations of the electric current are required to indicate one letter. In the House instrument it requires from one to twenty-eight pulsations. In the Hughes instrument it requires but a single pulsation for each letter. The mechanism by which this is accomplished is simple, though the principle on which it is based is complex. The type wheels at the respective stations revolve to print the message, and their revolutions are governed by vibrating springs. These springs cause them to revolve in exactly the same time. There is an recursic principle involved, vz. that two springs which give the same musical tone, while vibrating, viboute the same number of times per second. The springs are therefore chosen and regulated by sound. This instrument, it is evident, economizes both time and electric power. IMPORTS.
The imports by Lake are: This morning the market opened active at an advance of 2c on spring wheat and 3c on winter, but was less active in the afternoon, owing to the duliness in the N. Y. market. Holders were firm, however, at the advance prices. The principal sales to-day were made at Saturday's figures, though some nice samples went read; by at an advance. Though wheat was reported less ac-sive in New York to-day, in Buffaio it was 2382 higher. and the news produced but little effect upon this market. Oats are in demand, 2c higher. Corn is also more lively, and the sales to day were comparatively large. There is to charge to speak of in other grain, except barley, which is 'lookingto.' We quote to-day:

Wurat—Firm at $121,05 for com. to No.1 spring, $1.05
a$.02% for fair to choice club, $1.12a$1.20 for red winter, and $1.30a$1,29 for white do. Among the sales to-day we note: $80 bus No. 1 at 1,05, 600 hus do in store at $1.08.210 bus extra club at $1.10, 1.225 bus do at $1. 22 M. 722 bus white winter at $1,25, and 125 bus do at $ . Oars—In demand at Schigher; sales of 200 bus at 45c.

and 252 bus at 46c.
